ODD-ACIOUS

SO CRAZY IT MIGHT JUST WORK

Normal isn't working. Be bold. Be weird. Be exceptional.

Coach Zach empowers audiences to push past fear, find the courage to step out and do something different, and keep going until you get results. Want a better life? A better community? A better organization? For things to change, first we must change. Stop being stuck and start taking action. Zach brings the right mix of humor, sincerity and practical ideas tailored to your group.

For Leaders

Equip and empower your team to have the courage to make bold decisions, shake things up, take massive action and create the future you envision together. Zach's candid, humorous approach inspires and equips leaders to move forward with confidence and burn bright, without burning out.

For Individuals

Learn how to live boldly without any limitations, turning any challenge into an opportunity. Zach empowers individuals to claim their personal purpose, and become successful by taking successful actions. In this session, Zach equips you to find fuel from inside yourself, push past fear, think differently, and take massive action to create a better life.

ABOUT ZACH

Coach Zach equips you to push past fear, think differently, and take massive action to create a better life, better organization and better community. With the right mix of humor, sincerity and practical ideas tailored to your group, Zach's candid, humorous approach inspires and equips leaders to move forward with confidence and burn bright, without burning out.

Zach has been breaking the mold since childhood, when he would research companies and connect with CEO's across the country to learn about how they became successful. At the age of 14, Zach developed the community service organization, Teens Taking Action. The group has impacted thousands of people across the country and was later adopted by the YMCA. At age 16, he started his own party rental and event planning company, The Carnival Guy.

He published his first book, "The Teen CEO" at age 19. His book was inspired by his success in creating one of the fastest-growing party rental companies in the U.S. by the age of 18, winning him a place among America's Top 5 Young Entrepreneurs. At age 20 he became a franchise owner of Street Corner News, ran for Kansas Senate, and at 21, became a certified business coach.

Today, Zach is an author, speaker and trainer with ActionCOACH Business Coaching in Topeka, Kansas. He continues to work with the best and brightest and is booked nationally with speaking and training engagements.

“ZACH IS SUCH AN ENERGETIC AND ENGAGING SPEAKER. HIS KEYNOTE RESONATED WITH OUR AUDIENCE.”
